Provo, July 25.—Annie B. Radmall of Pleasant Grove has filed suit for divorce on the grounds of cruelty against Samuel D. Radmall.

Miss Gephra Halliday spent the week in Salt Lake with her sister, Mrs. Lucius Landie.

N. K. Nielson came from Springville the last of the week and is spending some time at the Utah Centennial mine in American Fork canyon.

Mrs. Z. C. Walker, who has been our local photographer for some time past, has moved to Alpine for an indefinite period.

Thursday evening the Clark picture house was turned over to the M. I. A. girls, who used the proceeds to help pay for their Stake Tabernacle but-toms.

The recent rains have done thousands of dollars of damage to the grain crops. Many acres are lying flat and will be greatly injured by frost. In fact, some of the dry grain is slightly affected.

Ernest Rasmussen, who has been attending summer school at the U. of C., returned home this week. He will teach school in Morgan again the coming winter.

The stork paid a visit to the home of Victor Johnson on Monday, leaving a fine baby boy.

During the recent raspberry rush William Kirk made two trips per day to Salt Lake City markets loaded to the guards each day.

The fire department is now in its new home in the building recently purchased from the school district. Double fire doors are being put in the building, and one room will be fitted up for the firemen's use.

The business houses did not close last Wednesday afternoon, but the people generally thought they did, and but few customers came. The rule is that when a holiday comes in a week the Wednesday afternoon of that week is not reserved as a half holiday.

Joseph W. Thorne, Len West, Fred Vouta, Byard Robinson, Miss Minerva Robinson and Miss Vera Thorne went up to the Utah Centennial mine in American Fork canyon Sunday. Work is progressing fine at the property. The vein growing wider in both the apraise and also in the face of the tunnel. The tunnel is now reaching a point where it is expected to break into the big fisher vein at almost any shot.

KIND WORDS.

It is often told that Eugene Field one day wandered into a basement restaurant, sat down at a table, put his chin in his hands and gazed moodily into space. A waiter came to him, and after the manner of his kind, enumerated the long list of dishes that were ready to be served.

"No, no," said Field, dejectedly, "I require none of these things. All I want is some sliced oranges and a few kind words."

Whether or not the incident be true, it is suggestive. Unquestionably, deeds weigh far more than words, and yet it is almost tragic to think how much happier and better this struggling world would become if kind words were more often heard. We all, every day, come in contact with those who are in Eugene Field's state of mind. They are in our own homes—mothers and fathers and children. They are behind the counters of stores; they are employees on trains; they are servants in kitchens; they are everywhere, and their name is legion. A word of appreciation would brighten the whole day, and would make it easier for them to keep on trying.

They do not cry out to us, to be sure. Not often does anyone admit frankly that what he really wants is kindly notice, but the desire is universal. Who does not know the man who is discouraged, who has "lost his grip," who needs the oil of sympathy and the wine of friendship poured into his wounds? Everyone knows, too, the man who has failed, who can never "succeed," but who needs friendliness all the more. All about us are the men who have not yet succeeded, but who only need encouragement to carry them on their way. Some have been hurt by cruelty and injustice, some are bruised by sorrow, and some are disheartened by the emptiness and monotony of their lives. There are hosts about us for whose practical relief, it may be, we can do nothing at all. But we can show we understand a little, and that we care. Let us do the little we can. It is worth while often to repeat to ourselves the old Quaker's words: "I expect to pass through this world but twice. Any good, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now, for I shall not pass this way again."

Says the Atchison Globe: "One of the new things William Allen White is advocating. There should be a law which will prevent issuing a marriage license to a girl who can't cook, can't keep house, can't clean up children's dirty noses and necks, and can't pass a decent examination on the feeding and care of infants. When women know something of what they are going into, as married women—whether they are rich or poor—there will be more sacredness of motherhood than the poets have ever sung. Now civilization has taken women from the home; it has put them in stores and offices and shops and factories. Home science must now be learned outside the home. But it must be learned, and the sooner the law cracks down on girls who go into matrimony caked in ignorance, and breed foul children who raise hell in the world, the better will this sad old world be."

We are urged on every hand nowadays to go out and do something for some one else. How would it do if we all went out and each do something for himself, instead of loafing around on the streets?

Judgments and Court Records

A Judgment rendered against any person is a lien on all the real property in his possession at the time judgment is rendered. The abstractor must know that there has been no judgments rendered against anyone for the past 21 years affecting the land being abstracted. To know this a search of the County Clerk's office is necessary.

Court decrees of distribution of real property to heirs, or other court proceedings are some times not filed in the recorder's office, and no well prepared abstract will be closed until the court records in such proceedings are searched.

Insist that your abstracts be ordered of the Utah Title Company. Eight years experience in the County Recorder's office qualifies us to make abstracts of title in Utah County.
